LOUIS BISCOTTI

NATIONAL FOOD & BEVERAGE SERVICES LEADER
MARCUM

Louis Biscotti is aptly named, given his expertise in the food and beverage industry. The certified public accountant built up a large food and beverage practice as a partner at former Rockville Centre firm Biscotti, Toback & Co. and then as the leader of the food and beverage group at Mazars.

Now, Biscotti brings his expertise to Marcum in Melville, where he was named national leader of the firm's food and beverage services group.

Biscotti made the move after his contract with Mazars expired, saying that he "received a wonderful offer to become a partner and expand Marcum's food and beverage industry practice."

Biscotti is the founder of a series of best-practice forums for food and beverage executives, which attract senior management from across the industry. He also conducts an annual food and beverage industry survey and is an active member of the Long Island Food Council as well as multiple chambers of commerce.

In his new role, Biscotti will continue to guide clients in various sectors of the industry through their development from small, emerging entities into large, high-value organizations.
