

POWER LEADERS

In Law & Accounting

Meet South Florida's major players

Welcome to our 2014 Power Leaders in Law and Accounting. As you review the section, you'll see some names and faces you're likely familiar with – and a few you may not recognize. And that's exactly the point. After all, we would be doing you a disservice if we didn't remain on top of who the major players in these industries are each year and honor them accordingly.

But know that those on this year's roster of honorees made the list because of notable contributions in their respective specialty areas, as highlighted in the accompanying brief biographies.

Sure, there are others who likely could've qualified for this list based on their accomplishments, as South Florida has no shortage of five-star talent in these fields. Still, we believe this list accurately reflects the high caliber of those working in the legal and accounting fields in the region. Join us in congratulating them.
