

Richard Devine

ADVISORY SERVICES

Richard Devine is a Partner in Marcum's Advisory Services division and partner-in-charge of Philadelphia Consulting Services. Mr. Devine leads the Higher Education practice in the Philadelphia office. Mr. Devine came to Marcum in 2015 via the Firm's merger with Smart Devine, a leading full-service accounting firm in Philadelphia, where he served as chief operating officer.

Mr. Devine has over 30 years of experience dealing with colleges, universities and academic medical centers on operational and internal control issues. He utilizes his experience to assist his clients with revenue enhancement and cost containment ideas as well as operational and compliance improvements.

Rich has been involved in control redesign and forensic accounting projects related to whistleblower complaints, sponsored research, financial aid, endowments, asset misappropriation and vendor related issues.

Rich has worked on projects related to a variety of organizations including the University of Pennsylvania, Saint Joseph's University, Villanova University, Drexel University, La Salle University, Thomas Jefferson University, Lehigh University, Cabrini University, Lafayette College, Seton Hall University, Yeshiva University and Wills Eye Health System.

Mr. Devine blends public accounting experience acquired during 15 years as a partner at a national accounting firm with corporate experience as chief financial officer at two financial organizations. With this background, he has an in-depth knowledge of accounting and control issues including regulatory reporting and compliance, enterprise risk management, internal control design and evaluation, budgeting and business transaction management.
