Marcum expands into Texas with merger

By: Bernadette Starzee July 24, 2018

Marcum now has a foothold in Texas, following a merger with Houston firm GBH CPAs.

A full-service public accounting and advisory firm based in Manhattan with major operations in Melville, Marcum now has offices in 23 U.S. cities, in addition to seven foreign cities.

The addition of GBH, which provides tax and audit services, brought four partners and 25 associates to Marcum. GBH has specialized practices in public company services, international tax, business valuations, litigation support, ESOPs, succession planning and estate planning. Jeff Houston, GBH's CEO and a founding partner, was named office managing partner for the Houston office.

Since expanding to the Midwest with its entry into the Chicago area in 2015, Marcum has had its sights on Texas.

"GBH is an ideal partner for Marcum in Texas," said Jeffrey Weiner, Marcum's chairman and CEO. "The firm has an outstanding track record of growth and client service, a focus on specialized practice areas that complement Marcum's, and a workplace culture that has earned it the respect of the business community locally and the accounting industry nationally."

Marcum now has a presence in New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Maine, Florida, Tennessee, Illinois, California and Texas, plus China, Grand Cayman and Ireland.
