February 13, 2023 POWER 25 - CLASS OF 2023

Making an Impact: the Power 25 Class of 2023

Our annual Power 25 list features individuals based in the Greater New Haven region who hold significant influence within their organizations and the broader business community. This year's group includes leaders of universities, global nonprofit organizations, real estate agencies, banks, manufacturers, law firms and economic development groups. The list features individuals who have been in their roles for many years, and some who have just begun to make their mark. The "Power 25" designation is not an award, but an acknowledgement of key leaders in positions of power. Our editorial staff picked them based on their leadership roles, recent accomplishments and impact.

Joseph Natarelli, Office Managing Partner, Marcum

Joseph Natarelli

Joseph Natarelli serves as the office managing partner for Marcum's New Haven operations, and he is a member of the New York City-headquartered firm's executive committee.

Marcum offers tax, assurance and advisory services, and also helps clients with technology, wealth management, and their executive search and staffing needs.

Natarelli, a certified public accountant, is the national leader of Marcum's construction services practice. In this role, he oversees audit, consulting and taxation services for clients in the construction industry. He also assists construction clients with improving job performance and profitability.

Natarelli's background also includes more than three decades of advising clients on mergers, acquisitions and divestitures.

Natarelli is a regular public speaker, conference panelist and contributing author for publications, with works appearing in publications such as "Construction, Accounting & Taxation."

Under Natarelli's leadership, Marcum's construction services group has developed a curriculum of summits and webinars, all aimed at helping those in the industry learn more about financial matters and strategic planning. He also spearheaded resources for the industry, such as the Marcum National Construction Survey and Marcum Commercial Construction Index.

Natarelli is often quoted in trade and business outlets around the country, from New Haven Biz to the Wall Street Journal, Bloomberg and Businessweek.

For New Haven Biz, Natarelli has provided insight into accounting firms' efforts to find and retain employees. Natarelli has said the firm offers flex time, routinely holds employee focus groups for feedback on what staffers would like to see change, and offers study time to employees taking their CPA exam.
