

LIBN CONFIDENTIAL

Important people in shorts

by LIBN Staff

Published: July 29, 2013

Marcum Workplace Challenge

Next week's Marcum Workplace Challenge charity run has attracted some of the fleetest captains of local commerce, including Bethpage Federal Credit Union chief Kirk Kordeleski, Olympus CFO Pierre Lacroix and Hubert Keen, the president of Farmingdale State College.

Another one to watch is Ken Daly, president of National Grid, who has won the Top Dog category for senior executives three times in 15 years of running the race. He's hoping to cross the line at this year's 3.5-mile challenge in under 24 minutes, which would be slightly off his personal best. That should put him somewhere in the pack of the 100 or so National Grid runners expected to compete.

"We have lots of hard-working and hard-running employees, and I expect and hope that some of them will come in ahead of me," he said.