

Inside Public Accounting

Marcum Named Innovative Firm of the Year by LEA Global

October 6, 2017 by INSIDE Public Accounting

New York-based Marcum (FY16 net revenue of $449 million) was named 2017 Innovative Firm of the Year by LEA Global: The Leading Edge Alliance. The award was presented at the LEA Global North American Conference in Denver on Sept. 26. It recognizes Marcum for continual innovation in all aspects of the firm's operation.

"Marcum's primary motivation is to grow with or ahead of our clients, to anticipate their needs, and as they evolve and expand, to be ready with the expertise and services they need before they know they need them. This requires us to constantly innovate solutions to business challenges that impact our client's success and our associates' efficiency," says Jeffrey Weiner, chairman and CEO.

"On every front, whether it's IT, leadership development, community service, strategic planning, marketing, succession planning or client service, this firm seems to perpetually be on the leading edge. It has grown into a powerhouse with resources from coast to coast and beyond through creativity, effective planning, cultural innovation and empowering leadership," says Karen Kehl-Rose, LEA Global president.